Officer Nominee Statement – Nominee for Secretary:

Andrew T. Morehead

Why have I chosen to run for the office of Secretary of the Faculty Assembly, and more to the point, why should you vote for me?

To the former question, I have chosen to run because I have had a long-term interest and belief in strategic planning, shared governance, and service to the university. I believe there is a balance between teaching, research, and service. Each of us should strive to maximize our impact on the academy in all those areas, but most particularly in our area of strength, and those efforts should be rewarded. I also believe we are stronger as a group than we will be individually.

To the second question I pose above (Why should you vote for me?), I would tell you that I am a person who has always believed in open lines of communication and a thoughtful consideration of the benefits and weaknesses of any move. I am a pragmatist who recognizes that no choice is ever without flaws and that the people who comprise an organization as complex as the university will never unanimously agree on anything. We simply must choose the best option. Finally, I believe that the most important question to ask to determine what option is "best" is this: how is this good for our students? And I believe that we should never choose a path unless the answer to this question is affirmative: is this good for our students?
