MEMORANDUM

TO: Members, Committee on Educational Planning, Policies, and Programs

FROM: Alan Mabe

DATE: June 2, 2010

SUBJECT: Report on Financial Aid

Background: At one point the NC State Educational Assistance Authority provided a report on financial aid regarding the UNC campuses. President Bowles asked that the report be moved in-house. This report is the result of a lot of interaction with the financial aid directors on our campuses and work to better define the data relevant to a financial aid report. With this format the goal is to have an annual report and be able to track longitudinally developments in financial aid, such as the net cost of education, the percent of students on each campus getting Pell grants, and the debt load of seniors. All of this data will be presented in the five parental income categories recognized by IPEDS, the federal reporting entity.

Jurisdictional Authority: President Bowles asked for this report to be moved to General Administration and be developed as a useful tool for understanding developments in financial aid.

Issues Involved: Does this provide data helpful to those who are trying to understand developments at the campus, system, state, and federal level in financial aid?

Now that the data are available, questions may arise that will need to be addressed. The variation in costs found in the detailed Cost of Attendance budgets in Table 1 will need further examination, especially the non-tuition/fees part of the budget where budgets vary by more than $3,000 in some cases.

Recommended Action: No action is necessary; feedback about the report would be very helpful.

DRAFT—Not For Distribution

Financial Aid Report

2007-08 & 2008-09

Introduction

The University of North Carolina is committed to providing affordable education to meet the need for more educated and more highly educated North Carolina citizens. Quality education at affordable price has been a feature of the University of North Carolina from its inception. This report provides data on access to a UNC education, the cost of that education, percent and number of students receiving financial aid, the sources of financial aid, and the debt load students have upon graduation. In addition, several key variables such as expected family contribution (EFC), the net cost, and remaining need are tracked by parental income category for in-state, full-time, dependent, degree-seeking, undergraduate students.

Table 1. Cost of Attendance for UNC In-State Full-Time Dependent On-Campus Undergraduates by Institution, 2006-07—2009-10

One measure of affordability is the cost of education in the UNC system. Table 1 displays the actual cost of attendance for UNC in-state, full-time, dependent, on-campus, undergraduates as provided by campus financial aid directors. Provided is the cost of attendance broken down into its individual components by UNC institution and by year, including: tuition and fees, room and board, books/supplies, travel, and other expenses.

Table 2. The Amount of Financial Aid Received by UNC In-State Undergraduate Students by Type and Institution, 2005-06—2008-09

Table 2 provides a summary of financial aid received over an academic year (excluding summer) for a four-year period. This table is intended to show the magnitude of aid provided to in-state undergraduates. Since students may receive more than one type of aid, they may be counted in more than one of the aid categories. However, the total number of students for each campus and year is unduplicated.

Table 3. Percent of UNC In-State Undergraduate Students Receiving Financial Aid by Type and Institution, Fall 2005—Fall 2008

Table 3 provides greater detail regarding the percentage of in-state undergraduates receiving various types of aid in the fall term by aid category and by UNC institution. The table includes the percentage of students receiving any type of aid.

Tables 4a and 4b. Average Cost, Parental Income, EFC (Expected Family Contribution), Grants/Scholarships, Need and Loan Amount for UNC In-State Full-Time Dependent Degree-Seeking Undergraduate Students Who Enrolled in Both Fall and Spring Semesters and Received Aid in Fall or Spring, 2007-08 and 2008-09

Tables 4a and 4b (4a for 2007-08 and 4b for 2008-09) array the data by reported parental income ranges. The ranges reported are those adopted by the Integrated Postsecondary Education Data System (IPEDS) for student financial aid survey reporting. The Cost of Attendance (COA) is the actual cost as displayed in Table 1. The Cost of Attendance and the Net Cost are highlighted to better communicate the difference. Net Cost is the Cost of Attendance minus Grants and Scholarships. Parental income and Expected Family Contribution (EFC) are collected from the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) form.

The following calculations are used in these tables: Need (Cost of Attendance minus Expected Family Contribution); Net Cost (Cost of Attendance minus Grants/Scholarships); and Remaining Need (Cost of Attendance minus Expected Family Contribution and Grants/Scholarships).

In each category, the number of students and average amount are reported.

Table 5. Average Accumulated Indebtedness of UNC In-State Graduating Seniors Student Loans, 2007-2008 and 2008-09

Table 5 provides the number and percentage of graduating in-state seniors by UNC institution who received student loans (excluding forgivable loans) while they were undergraduates. This table shows the average accumulated loan indebtedness, the average number of semesters that these students were enrolled and the average number of semesters in which they received student loans. Summer terms are excluded.

Table 6. Average Accumulated Indebtedness of UNC In-State Graduating Seniors Forgivable Loans, 2007-2008 and 2008-09

Table 6 parallels information provided in Table 5 for forgivable loans only. Forgivable loans, which are usually related to a post-graduation service requirement, are listed in Footnote 6 of the table.

Tables 7a and 7b. Average Accumulated Indebtedness of UNC In-State Dependent Graduating Seniors, (2007-08 and 2008-09)

Tables 7a and 7b (7a for 2007-08 and 7b for 2008-09) provide indebtedness information for graduating seniors who were dependent students and received student loans (forgivable and non-forgivable) as undergraduates. Data are shown by parental income ranges.

Appendix A. List of Financial Aid

To help in understanding how financial aid is categorized in the preceding tables, Appendix A shows a detailed listing of all of the financial aid codes reported by UNC institutions to General Administration.

Notes:

1. Appendix A contains the inclusions for each aid category.
2. Students are counted in each category of aid received. Therefore the number of students is unduplicated in each aid category but duplicated across aid categories. The number of students in 'Total' is unduplicated.

Notes:

1. N*=Number of students who were in-state, full-time, degree-seeking undergraduates in both fall and spring semesters.
2. Cost of Attendance (COA) includes tuition and fees, room and board, books/supplies, travel, and other expenses.
3. Parental Income and Expected Family Contribution (EFC) are obtained from the FAFSA.
4. Parental Income ranges shown are based on IPEDS' income ranges.
5. Grants/Scholarships includes federal, state, and institutional grants and scholarships reported on the student financial aid file.
6. Need, Net Cost, and Remaining Need are calculated as follows:
 Need=COA minus EFC
 Net Cost=COA minus Grants/Scholarships
 Remaining Need=COA minus EFC minus Grants/Scholarships
7. All loans awarded to students are included. Loans to parents are excluded.

Notes:

1. N*=Number of students who were in-state, full-time, degree-seeking undergraduates in both fall and spring semesters.
2. Cost of Attendance (COA) includes tuition and fees, room and board, books/supplies, travel, and other expenses.
3. Parental Income and Expected Family Contribution (EFC) are obtained from the FAFSA.
4. Parental Income ranges shown are based on IPEDS' income ranges.
5. Grants/Scholarships includes federal, state, and institutional grants and scholarships reported on the student financial aid file.
6. Need, Net Cost, and Remaining Need are calculated as follows:
 Need=COA minus EFC
 Net Cost=COA minus Grants/Scholarships
 Remaining Need=COA minus EFC minus Grants/Scholarships
7. All loans awarded to students are included. Loans to parents are excluded.
