Board of Governors Awards for Excellence in Teaching

I. Establishment of Award

The Board of Governors established the Award for Excellence in Teaching in 1993 with the following resolution:

“To underscore the importance of teaching and to encourage, identify, recognize, reward, and support good teaching within the University, the Board of Governors shall create annual system-wide teaching awards with monetary stipends which are designated the Board of Governors Awards for Excellence in Teaching.”

The full BOG policy (400.3.6) and guideline (400.3.6.1[G]) are available in Appendix 1.

II. Award Funding

As of 2013, each award recipient receives a stipend of $12,500. This amount is an increase from the previous stipend of $7,500.

In addition to the $12,500 for each campus recipient, Policy 400.3.6 designates eight campuses (ECSU, FSU, NCCU, UNCA, UNCP, UNCSA, WSSU and NCSSM) to receive $9,500 each for campus-based teaching awards. Nine campuses (ASU, ECU, NCA&T, NCSU, UNC-CH, UNCC, UNCG, UNCW, WCU) each receive $6,500 for campus-based teaching awards. All funding is provided through state appropriations.

In addition to these allocated funds, some campuses have historically contributed additional monies to award excellence in teaching. In 2014, nine (9) campuses provided extra monies, to honor excellence in teaching.

A complete account of the use of funds is provided in Appendix 2.

III. Nominee Selection Process

The nominees for the Awards for Excellence in Teaching are selected by campus-based committees as outlined in 400.3.6.1[G]. Each campus solicits campus nominations and establishes a timeline consistent with General Administration’s deadline for submission of their nominee. The timeline is provided in Appendix 3.

Each campus submits their nominee to General Administration in February for review and approval by the Committee on Personnel and Tenure. Recipients are notified by the Chair of the Board of Governors.

The selection process for campus-based teaching awards mirrors this process with the criteria determined by a campus committee.

IV. Event History and Costs

Between 1995 and 2008, the BOG Teaching Award held an annual luncheon for recipients in Chapel Hill. Recipients had the opportunity to invite guests including their Chancellor, Provost, a former student, and family members. The cost for the yearly luncheon was approximately $20,000. In 2009, in an effort to reduce costs while maintaining the stature of the award, the BOG decided to honor each nominee by locally by presenting the award at each campus' spring commencement. This resulted in a cost savings of $17,500.

Additionally, honoring each campus recipient on their campus provides an opportunity for the recipient to be recognized in the presence of their peers, students, senior administrators, and friends of the university.

V. BOG Teaching Award Website

Each awardee is depicted, along with a descriptive narrative, on the UNC General Administration website. The website contains information on award recipients for the last three years. This website was requested by the Committee on Personnel and Tenure in 2010. The link to the site is: <http://www.northcarolina.edu/?q=board-governors-awards/teaching-awards-2014>

University Teaching Awards

Introduction

At its September 1993 meeting, the Board of Governors adopted a report on Tenure and Teaching in the University of North Carolina. The report, prepared jointly by the Board's Committee on Personnel and Tenure and its Committee on Educational Planning, Policies, and Programs, reaffirmed the Board's insistence that teaching is the primary responsibility of each of the 17 constituent institutions of the University. To underscore the importance of teaching and to encourage, identify, recognize, reward, and support good teaching within the University, the Board adopted a set of six specific recommendations, including the following:

That the Board of Governors create annual systemwide teaching awards with monetary stipends which are designated "Board of Governors Awards for Excellence in Teaching."

I. Annual Awards for Teaching Excellence

A. The Board of Governors will allocate $352,000 each year for the Awards for Teaching Excellence with approximately one half of the fund ($217,500) to be used each year for a system-wide awards program and the other half ($134,500) to be used for allocations to campuses for teaching awards.

B. Each year the chair of the Board of Governors will appoint a special committee, or designate a standing committee such as the Committee on Personnel and Tenure, to provide coordination and oversight for the teaching awards programs.

C. The program of awards will be evaluated and revised periodically.

II. System-wide Awards

A. Number of Awards

There shall be a total of 17 Board of Governors Awards annually. One recipient shall be nominated from each of the 17 constituent institutions.

B. Nature of Awards and Recognition

Each recipient of a Board of Governors Award for Excellence in Teaching will receive a citation and a one-time award of $12,500. Presentation of the awards will be made at an appropriate event to be attended by recipients and their guests, members of the Board of Governors, the President and vice presidents of the University, the chancellors or their designees, and other guests.

C. Eligibility for Selection

Any faculty member who has earned tenure¹ at the institution and has taught at the institution for at least seven years is eligible. The recipient must have demonstrated excellent or exceptional teaching ability over a sustained period of time. Potential nominees must be teaching in the academic year in which they are selected.

¹At the North Carolina School of Science and Mathematics and the University of North Carolina School of the Arts, a faculty member with a multi-year contract who has taught at the institution for at least seven years is eligible.

No faculty member will be eligible to receive this award more than once while teaching at any UNC institution.

III. Institutional Teaching Awards

A. A total of $134,500 will be allocated each year to the 17 constituent institutions to establish additional faculty awards for teaching excellence.

B. Each institution should develop procedures for establishing awards and selecting recipients supported by the Board's allocation.

C. In establishing these awards, the Board gave special emphasis to the smaller institutions with more limited resources and to those institutions which did not have teaching awards.

In keeping with this objective the following eight institutions are allocated $9,500 each: Elizabeth City State University, Fayetteville State University, North Carolina Central University, University of North Carolina at Asheville, University of North Carolina at Pembroke, University of North Carolina School of the Arts², Winston-Salem State University and North Carolina School of Science and Mathematics, with the other nine constituent institutions being allocated $6,500 each for teaching awards.

IV. Guidelines for Implementing the Awards for Teaching Excellence

The President will issue guidelines for the nomination and selection of system-wide teaching awards and the allocation of funds for institutional teaching awards.

²Name changed from North Carolina School of the Arts to University of North Carolina School of the Arts effective August 1, 2008.

Guidelines on University Teaching Awards

These guidelines contain a summary of the steps to be taken by the constituent institutions to implement the policy amended by the Board of Governors on September 10, 2004, on University Teaching Awards.

Implementation of Teaching Awards by the Constituent Institutions

I. System-wide Awards

1. Each institution should have developed detailed, written procedures for nominating one faculty member annually to receive the Board of Governors Award for Excellence in Teaching.
2. The selection of the nominee, who must meet the eligibility criteria established by the Board, shall be made by a campus-wide selection committee.
3. The name of the institution's nominee, along with convincing supportive evidence (e.g., a portfolio), must be submitted to the President through the chancellor of the nominating institution by February 1 of each year.
4. Portfolios must include:
 - A brief written statement which articulates each finalist's teaching philosophy and methods used to achieve educational goals;
 - Copies of peer evaluation of teaching;
 - Statements by colleagues and former students of the instructor who have provided letters of support for the nominee;
 - A copy of the nominee's resume or curriculum vitae;
 - A current photograph of the nominee.
 - Other materials may be included in the portfolio at the discretion of the campus.
 - These materials will be returned to the campus after the awards ceremony.
5. The Board of Governors committee charged with overseeing the Teaching Awards process will review the documentation and recommend the names of recipients to the Board of Governors.
6. Once the selection has been made and the recipient of the annual Board of Governors Award for Teaching Excellence has been announced, a summary of the supporting documentation should be made available to all of the campus community. (The documentation could be placed in the campus library.)
7. The $7,500 award paid to a recipient of a Board of Governors Award for Excellence in Teaching must be in addition to, and not in lieu of, any salary increases (for merit or other reasons) to which an individual recipient may be entitled.

II. Institutional Awards

1. The internal allocation of funds provided for institutional awards must be consistent with institutional procedures as required by the Board in Policy 400.3.6. Eligibility criteria for the awards on the various campuses (i.e., length of service and tenure status, etc.) are to be determined by appropriate committees at the appropriate levels.

2. Each institution must file an annual report by June 15 to the Board of Governors through the President on the internal distribution and use of these allocations for teaching awards.

III. Evaluation of Program of Awards

The Board committee responsible for overseeing the Awards for Teaching Excellence will periodically evaluate the policy (400.3.6), revise it as appropriate, and recommend changes to these guidelines to the President as appropriate.
