Situation: One of the University’s highest priorities is to prepare more, higher quality teachers and school leaders for North Carolina’s public schools. The UNC Board of Governors held an Education Summit on January 27, 2015 to present a set of recommendations focused on teacher and school leader preparation to the full Board, UNC campus leadership, State Board of Education members, legislators, and other education leaders in NC.

Background: One of UNC Board of Governors Recommendations on Teacher and School Leader Quality is to ensure greater public accountability through the development of a UNC Teacher Quality Dashboard to monitor and measure the performance of UNC’s fifteen nationally accredited teacher education programs. The dashboard has been developed in partnership with SAS and will “go live” mid-May.

Assessment: The UNC Teacher Quality Dashboard will be demonstrated to the Committee.
