

Military Student Success

The University of North Carolina is committed to the success of military-affiliated students.¹ This policy, and its associated regulations and guidelines, provide a framework for the constituent institutions of the University of North Carolina to develop and maintain a comprehensive network of services for military-affiliated students seeking to meet their educational goals. The president shall establish regulations to implement the requirements of these policies and to promote the general welfare of service members, veterans, spouses, and dependent family members at the constituent institutions.

I. Admission of Active Duty Service Members and Veterans

A. The University of North Carolina and its constituent institutions are committed to equality of opportunity. The University administers nondiscriminatory admissions policies by fairly evaluating the records of applicants.

B. For purposes of undergraduate admission to any constituent institution of the University of North Carolina, any individual having completed a minimum of three years of cumulative active duty service in the United States Armed Forces who otherwise meet the criteria for a transfer student will be considered a transfer student in the admissions process pursuant to 700.1.1.2[R], with the branch of service functioning as the institution of transfer. If discharged from active duty, the veteran must have received an Administrative Discharge. This policy shall not apply to veterans receiving a “Bad Conduct or Dishonorable Discharge.”

C. Under conditions set forth by the president in regulations associated with this policy, applicants in this profile may be offered special consideration with regard to the minimum admissions and minimum course requirements for transfer students.

D. Nothing in this policy guarantees admission for students who do not meet institutional academic standards for admission. Constituent institutions retain sole authority for admissions determinations.

II. Military-Affiliated Student Data

The president shall establish appropriate and uniform data collection procedures to enable the constituent institutions to identify and track the academic progress of service members, veterans, spouses, and dependent family members for the purposes of evaluating and reporting retention, graduation and the length of time to degree.

III. Residency Status of Military-Affiliated Students

North Carolina created and maintains its public institutions of higher education primarily for the benefit of the residents of North Carolina, and its institutions are generously supported by the General Assembly and the public. Military-affiliated students may be eligible for in-state tuition under the conditions established by General Statutes of the state of North Carolina and enacted by regulations in the North Carolina State Residence Classification Manual and in association with this policy.

IV. Campus Support Structures for Military-Affiliated Students

The constituent institutions of the University of North Carolina shall develop and maintain campus-based support networks as well as a comprehensive series of community, regional, and national referrals for military-affiliated students to assist in successful navigation of their educational goals. These services shall include, but not be limited to, admissions, financial aid, housing, student affairs, health services and counseling, and academic affairs.

¹For the purposes of this policy, “military-affiliated students” shall include students who are service members (including National Guard and Reserve members), veterans, spouses of service members or veterans, or dependent family members of service members or veterans.

V. Military Credit Transferability

The University of North Carolina recognizes the value of the education, training and experience that military students bring to the university. The university and its constituent campuses shall establish a process by which this learning can be evaluated for possible course credit. Such military learning may include but will not be limited to recruit training, military occupational specialty (MOS) training and education, Defense Language Institute foreign language coursework and exams, Community College of the Air Force (CCAF) coursework, CLEP (College-Level Examination Program) and DANTES Standardized Subject tests. The American Council on Education (ACE) credit equivalency recommendations serve as the standard reference work for recognizing learning acquired in the military.²

VI. Call to Duty

The University of North Carolina supports students called to active duty or training in the United States Armed Forces, including service in the National Guard or Reserve.³ The policies of the University shall assist, whenever possible, the student in withdrawing and re-entering the university without financial or academic hardship. Such policies shall include but are not limited to:

- A. Military Withdrawal
- B. Refunds of Tuition, Fees, and Other Expenses
- C. Academic Credit
- D. Deferral of Enrollment
- E. Military Leave of Absence
- F. Re-admission into the University
- G. Scholarship Status

²Nothing in this policy prevents constituent institutions from evaluating military learning independent of the ACE evaluation.

³Campuses may choose whether to extend some or all of the benefits of these policies to the spouse or child of a person called to active duty. Campuses may also choose to include spouses and children of persons called to active duty under the extenuating circumstances regulation (UNC Policy Manual, Section 400.1.5[R]).
