System faculty member whose work has made the greatest contribution to the welfare of the human race. Chair Ramsey thanked the Gardner Family and the Foundation for their tremendous support in recognizing our faculty’s contributions and for their long tradition of advocacy for public higher education. The committee consisted of Mr. Sloan, chair; Mrs. Nichols, Mr. Goolsby, and Mr. Palma. Next, Chair Ramsey called on Mrs. Nichols to begin the presentation.

Mrs. Nichols recognized Dr. Yun’s guests including his family members and colleagues. Mrs. Nichols remarked that Dr. Yun is an esteemed professor who has spent the past decade making notable contributions to bioengineering education and Alzheimer’s research. In 2021, Dr. Yun was awarded a $1.43 million grant from the National Institutes of Health to develop a miniature brain model to study the causes of Alzheimer’s disease. Following a brief video highlighting Dr. Yun’s impressive work, President Hans presented Dr. Yun with a stipend and a framed citation (see Appendix A). Chair’s Report
Chair Ramsey welcomed State Auditor Beth Wood. He thanked her for taking the time to join the day’s meeting. Reflecting on the end of another academic year, Chair Ramsey congratulated the students who earned their degrees and graduated from our institutions this month. Chair Ramsey mentioned that he was pleased to have had the opportunity to participate in the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill’s commencement ceremony, and he thanked the Board members who participated in the commencement ceremonies at each of our constituent institutions across the System.

Chair Ramsey commented that Governor Cooper recently directed $16.3 million to help UNC System students pay for summer school classes in 2022 and 2023. In addition, the Governor’s Summer Accelerator Program will offer students up to $5,000 to cover tuition, fees, and housing costs. This assistance enables students to complete their degrees in a timely manner. He thanked Governor Cooper for his support and commitment to the UNC System.

Next, Chair Ramsey called on President Hans to provide a brief update on athletic programs. President Hans reported that the Committee on Budget and Finance was gathering information regarding the financial stability of certain athletic programs across the System. He stated that there are other issues that continue to impact college athletic programs including name, image, and likeness rules, Title IX compliance, conference re-alignment, etc. He engaged various UNC System chancellors and athletic directors, asking for their support in facilitating conversations on this topic. President Hans’ report focused on the efforts the UNC System has made related to awarding college credit for military-affiliated, active-duty, and veteran students. North Carolina is home to one of the largest populations of veterans and active-duty military personnel in the nation. He remarked that “in the past, we have missed out on the chance to serve talented military students because our credit policies weren’t easy to parse.” He praised the UNC faculty and administrators who have worked to correct that problem. President Hans officially signed a new regulation titled, Regulation on Awarding Credit for Military Training or Experience, that will allow more military-affiliated students across the UNC System to earn credit for military training (see Appendix C). Next President Hans introduced Jasmine Coleman, a U.S. Army veteran and assistant director for academic and military outreach at UNC Pembroke. Ms. Coleman joined the meeting by videoconference. President Hans called on her for brief remarks about her experience of pursuing higher education.
